

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Beata Boleslawska-Lewandowska and Jolanta Guzy-Pasiak Warsaw Autumn Festival and its Legacy: An Introduction	7
Part I. Between West Germany and the Soviet Union
Iwona Lindstedt The Warsaw Autumn Festival and the Development of Polish Contemporary Music: Internal Transformations and International Recognition	15
Marianne Nowak 'One of the Most Important Manifestations of Poland's Newly Gained Cultural Freedom'. The Early Warsaw Autumn from the West German Perspective	35
Daniel Elphick Polish-Soviet Musical Exchange: Composers' Delegations in the 1960s	49
Part II. Within the Eastern Bloc
Michal Ščepán Significance of the Warsaw Autumn for the Development of Slovak Music from the Times of the Iron Curtain until Today	67
Nataša Leverić Špoljarić The Relations between Poland and Croatia—Inspired by the Aesthetics of New Polish Music in the Compositional Poetics of Stanko Horvat	83
Olena Berehova Ukrainian Musicians at the Warsaw Autumn Festival: An Attempt at Historical Reconstruction	103
Part III. Beyond the Western Borders
Harry White The Contribution of Polish Composers to the Dublin Festival of Twentieth-Century Music between 1974 and 1982	133
Monika Prusak 'Settimana Internazionale di Nuova Musica' in Palermo: The Birth of a Long Polish-Italian Collaboration	143
Semitha Cevallos An Unlikely Encounter: New Music at the Warsaw Autumn and the Guanabara Festivals	159

Part IV. Towards Émigré Composers

Elżbieta Szczurko Works of Michał Spisak and Antoni Szałowski at the Early Editions of the Warsaw Autumn Festival 187

Blake Parham A Forgotten Past: The Role of the Warsaw Autumn Festival in the Reintroduction of Polish Émigré Composers during the Cold War 205

About the Authors 217